Thank you for creating with WordPress.

As you can see, these fields are used to configure the breaking news bar colors and position to be suitable with your website design or theme.

The thing you have to care about the most is when you set the bar placement to manual:

Bar placement
☐ Automatic

Choose the manual option and add css selector to the header if you feel uncomfortable with the current bar placement.

CSS Selector
Write css selector here. Learn more.

You just have to add CSS selector for the HTML element you want to add the news bar into it. If that element has some content inside it, the bar will be added at the end of that element.

And that's it for configuring the plugin.

The second requirement is to choose the post you want it to be displayed as breaking news.

Go to your posts and edit one of them, and you will see the following if you are using the new Gutenberg editor:

And if you are using the old classic editor you will see the following:

As you can see, they are much the same fields, except for the styling. Just check the mark as breaking news check box and optionally write a custom title. If you need it to have an expiry date, just specify it into the related fields. Be sure that it's only allowed to select a future date.

Finally, the result will be like this on the website front-end:

And that's it for the plugin. If you need any help, let me know by contacting me on my email: dev.ahmedwael@gmail.com .
